INSIDE THE CLASSROOM

- We were very busy this week examining stems, seeds, roots, leaves and all of the other things needed for a plant to live. We learned that some roots we can eat like carrots and potatoes! Some leaves you can eat too like lettuce and spinach. We even did an experiment to see if all plants need dirt to sprout. You can watch the changes with us during the next few weeks.
- As part of our social and emotional learning this week, we talked about frustration and even though it is not a pleasant feeling, we experienced frustration first hand this week (tying shoes, zipping coats, cutting with scissors). The children are learning that they can find solutions to problems even when we are upset and having a strong feeling.
- We practiced the letter B this week by bringing in many amazing show and tell items, building B's with wood pieces, practicing writing the letter in our books.
